No mouse control refund.. As of the writing moment, the game is still in it's infancy. A lot of the basic stuff is in, new content added regularly. Dev's are very responsive on the Disccord server and they really listen to the users input. If you would like to be there from the start and chip in to a great game that is arising, do not hesitate. It's super fun and has a bright future ahead! Play in the role of the native americans as the Pirates start to invade the land. Fight them off and steal their equipment, or even brainwash and enslave them. Hunt wildlife, gather useful plants, build your base, produce gear... +++
If you would like to be there and see a game solidify and evolve, now is the time to join in!. It's worms. It's crazy. It's golf. It's good fun for a few hours.. Had this WAAAAAY before Steam. Played it a lot. Loved it. Barely touched it on Steam, but in no way is that a comment that says 'it's aged, stay away'. It has all that campy, cartoony, old-school superhero goofiness, and I reckon it plays it perfectly. Both this sequel and the original have some decent tactics style game play. Good fun.. I bought this game at 39 cents and is pretty cool . THE BEST hardcore race game ever (BUY IT)

7,5V10. I found this game ugly. The graphics has no artstyle, sprites too small. Controls are not good, and in my opinion platformer genre games is obligated to have good controls and precise jumping mechanics.

#Archery is a mini-game compilation that features archery mechanics. While the graphic is simple, what's fun is its highly interactive environment (in the sense that you can fire an arrow at them for additional point).

There are about 5 mini-games, each featuring simple gameplay objective. The game doesn't give you any instruction before you start the mini-game though, so you'll have to figure it out yourself on what they are. Some of the mini-games may even features their own mini (but even shallower) game too, and to play them you have to fire an arrow at their icon).

This title is in early access, and provide bit-size fun. I don't have a problem aiming and firing the arrows in all the mini games (except the rooftop target board mini game) too.

All in all, this title is an easy to pick up title for VR beginner to play, and should provide casual fun, but it need more contents (mini games) ASAP.. Abit of a hassle to set up and also get the X-Wing Alliance Upgrade, do yourself a favor and just do it But once you've got it setup your in for a real treat, the controls are pretty complex but the gameplay is very easy to understand, and its awfully cheap too!. Fun and quick game...Nice drawings!. I don't really like roguelikes/lites, but this game doesn't feel like one.. Sure, you only have one life to complete the level, and the level changes everytime you restart after death, but you keep the stuff you collected before you reached the level and you can restart at the beginning of the level you reached.

I like the atmosphere when I try to be sneaky and the panic when too many zombies discover me. The game feels polished and most of the time fair, being careful got me to the 5th level already and it's such a relief to reach the end of a level alive! :)

I also like the game mechanics so far, like the use of the flashlight to discover loot without the zombies discovering me the second they see the light or the running.. you can actually run short intervalls and being sneaky at same time.. no need to crouch trough the whole level.

The one thing I don't like, is that you need to face obstacles at like 90 degree to jump over them.. this killed me quite often when trying to flee in panic.. We have a terrorist with an awesome theme And we have a girl with glasses with an even more awesome theme.

Alte can be pretty usefull at times, use her hyper on a boss and nobody gets the bounty. Also, seeing someones card is always funny :3

Kyoko is a great character. Despite her having no evade options, she's really good to use, especially to win matches. Use her hyper, you can just evade bosses, evade players attacking you and avoid traps.

This dlc is awesome.. Don't see the word Metroidvania and get excited, this game is garbage.. First Few Minutes you Go, THE HUNTER IS OVERPOWERED!!! WTF!!! Then you learn, that no, no they arent you just suck at this game, then you go to try the hunter and realize even more, To Play the Hunter you need some skill!!!!!! So you switch back and forth until you figure out which side you are good at and begin to enjoy the game more and more :D
